DAWSON SPRINGS TO GET GREAT SANITARIUM

Government Realizes Value of Healing Properties in Dawson Water.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The senate today passed the amended Kibbler bill providing for the establishing of a federal sanatorium at Dawson's Springs. The measure carries the appropriation of $1,500,000 as initial expenditures for construction of necessary buildings.

Five thousand acres of land have been donated to the government by Western Kentuckians as the site for the proposed hospital.

The sanatorium is to be used principally for tuberculosis and epileptic cases among soldiers, sailors and marines.

The bill, which now goes before joint conference, will be enacted into law before the session closes, it is confidently expected.

FLU CAUSES INSANITY.

Press Evans, of McHenry, an employee of the Illinois Central railroad, was arrested and brought before a jury Monday. Mr. Evans had recently recovered from a severe attack of the influenza and his mind was entirely unbalanced. He is about fifty years of age. He has been track walker of the railroad at McHenry for many years and during this time was always punctual in his duties and bears a good reputation among his acquaintances. During the recent epidemic he lost his wife and other relatives and it is thought brooding upon this loss caused him to lose his mind. It was not known that he was the possessor of any property or money until the jailer searched him when he was placed in jail for the night and $700 was found on his person. He was taken to Hopkinsville Monday evening.

DOUGLAS' RAISE RIOT.

Quite a stir was raised in Rockport Friday when Mr. Elvis and Frank Douglas, defendant in police court, denied the marshal and took his post away from him and for some time kept his deputies all at bay. It is said they were to be tried for some offense in police court and police Judge Fulkerson had trouble to get them to submit. The marshal was called and during the tussle one of them got his gun away from him and took possession. They barricaded themselves in a house and defied the officer. A number of deputies were summoned and seeing that they could be forced to submit, they surrendered. They were all placed under arrest and brought to Rockport Sunday and placed in jail to await trial. They will be tried next Friday.

ROACH—COX

Mr. Joseph E. Cox, son of Mr. Albert Cox, of Sulphur Springs, and Miss Oakley Roach, of near Sunnydale, were married at the Herald office last Wednesday morning by Walter Greep, pastor of the Christian Church. The young couple were accompanied by Mr. Cox's sister, Mrs. Otis Gabbert and Mr. Gabbert. Mr. Cox is a prosperous young farmer of the Sulphur Springs vicinity and his bride is a pleasing young lady of the Sunnydale section. The Herald together with their many friends wish them a long happy voyage on the matrimonial sea.

REPORTED MISSING, LATER TURNS UP.

In one of the casualty lists of last fall the name of Percy A. Park appeared as "missing in action." No trace of him could be found and it was supposed that he had died some where on the battle fields and had never been found. His parents gave up all hope of ever hearing from him again. But a few days ago they received a message from him and it contained the cheering news that he was strong and well and hoped to be home soon. He has been a prisoner in Germany since last fall. He has been employed during his incarcation in a German printing office. From our brief experience in the printing business and from what we know of the German alphabet we feel he should bring up his case before the League of Nations, charging the Hun with cruelty to prisoners.

THE END OF A LONG ROMANCE.

Age as well as youth has its romances and the ending of these love stories, where they bring the lovers together after they have gone through tribulations and won out through fire and smoke, is just as appealing as is the picture of a hero and his bride younger in years. And one of these stories has just been enacted by an Ohio County couple which rivals the famed tale of Romeo and Juliet.

A few years back—we do not know how many—Mr. Barney Smith, of Horse Branch, became enamored of one Mrs. Eva DeHart, a widow of declining years, and his love grew stronger with the drawing of each mortal breath.

Life was not worth living without the beloved, but Barney was in a predicament. Somewhere back in the passionate days of his youth he had married the wrong woman—for him—and they had agreed to disagree. But he had failed to secure a divorce and was now a grass widower in love with another and tied to the former by the strong cords of the law. His locks were white as the snowdrift but his heart was young and he wood her incessantly. Finally some of the neighbors got suspicious of his too frequent calls and brought them before court. They took rooms with the jailer for some time but were released later.

But like all true love stories it all came out right in the end. A few days ago the morning mail brought the long sought writing of divorce to the aged lover and the evening found him standing before the preacher, so they say. The magic words were said that made the couple one. May they journey down a flower pathway for the rest of their days.

RETURNS FROM FRANCIS IN LOUISVILLE.

Fall of Rough, Ky., Feb. 22.—Mrs. Roy Eskridge went to Yeoman, Ky., Monday to attend the funeral of her cousin, Frank Porter, who was on his return home from France, and took ill with pneumonia while in Louisville. He was removed to the City Hospital where he died. Several members of his family reached him before he passed away.

Pvt. Porter was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hardin Porter. He was a well to do young farmer.

FINED FOR GAMBLING.

The examining trial of Ben Harris, Elwood Rone and Tom Wright, all of Rockport, was held Monday, the 17th. The cases were held over except Harris, who was fined $25 and freed. The warrants charged Harris with robbing the other two of $25 during a poker game at Rockport. Rone was charged with selling whiskey and gambling. Wright was charged with gambling. Their cases have been held over but Harris pleaded guilty to gambling and was fined and released. He was cleared of the charge of robbery.

CIRCUIT COURT NOTES.

Although there is practically no prospect of having any jury trials at the regular March term of court, several suits have been filed in the Clerk's office since our last issue.

Herbert Westerfield sues Arch Hoover for $200.00 which he claims to have been damaged in a "boss swap" with the defendant.

The Ichenhauer Co. sues Otho Dexter on an account for $54.00.

W. F. Basham filed suit against R. D. Carter for the alleged non-payment of two notes aggregating $100.00 with interest, credited by $12.50.

Jesse Fogle asks the Court to grant her alimony in the sum of $100.00 and for $25.00 per month maintenance pending the litigation, plaintiff claims that defendant deserted her in July 1911 and has since refused to live with her.

Santatur Adams sues Mayne Cooms for absolute divorce, alleging that defendant abandoned him and eloped with another man.

S. H. Oglesby & Co. sue Greek Akins &c., as the heirs and only heirs of B. W. Oglesby deceased, plaintiffs ask for the sale of certain land belonging to said decedent's estate.

Mary A. Johnson sues Eugene Allen &c., on two purchase money notes held by plaintiff, she asks for the sale of a house and lot in Rosine, Ky., to satisfy her claim.

Clayton Sutton &c., as the heirs of J. C. Sutton deceased and asks for the sale of a tract of land belonging to the decedent's estate.

In this campaign we hope to enlist every Baptist church in the county to hold a protracted meeting during the time mentioned.

If there ever was a time, when we ought to put forth an effort to win the lost to Christ, now is that time. There is more heretical propaganda in the country now than ever before. The church union movement and that most damnable heresy that a man may be saved by a "Soldiers uniform" and so on etc. These things make it necessary that we put forth a united effort to hold up before lost men and women the gospel plan of salvation. Let every Baptist in the county think of this proposition and when the ban is lifted get together and arrange to hold meetings in every church in the county during the time mentioned.

THE VENEER OF THE YEARS

BY WALTER GREEP.

CHAPTER V.

der. This he would do. A new resolve struck him. He would leave the city and go far out in the west

WESTWARD.

For hours he sat thus, silent, and began at the bottom for a sure heart-broken and despondent. He had slow ascent. His education he was alone, locked in his room, would foretold his accomplishments alone with his reflections. Outside sounded the clang of bells, the Only as stones for the foundation screaming of automobile sirens and of his career would he count them: the voices of pleasure seekers go never as a part of the structure fitting to and from the places of self. amusement. From the beer garden down the street came the window and looked out over sound of loud revelry. There as the garish city. Like a sea of sounded each night the city's scum twinkling diamonds the lights to partake of the riot of drunken beamed through the darkness with debauchery. But neither good nor here and there a brilliantly lighted, gentle nor plebeian, street marking an iridescent took any interest in him. No one "Milky Way" through the murk of disturbed him. He seemed, as he the foggy night. From the beer sat in the throws of disappointed garden came the sound of an anguish, to be a disintegrated unit, separated from all others, a world now the band played light and leaping music and the shouts grew louder; then it struck up some soft pulsing number that carried with it a flood of sweetness and the laughter ceased. Even the seared hearts of the drunken crowd could what would he have given to have not resist music. Merlin listened seen them! But how long had this first week in the world of men appeared! Those few brief days he had been away from Devondale had spread a deep and impassable gulf between him and that life—the life to which his memory-entombed fancy still so ardently clung. He could not go back to the picture of the summer land Devondale, to the friends who escape upon which he gazed in knew him, and to Samantha, a fairie. Merlin was an orphan and had never known the sweet protection of a parental roof or the tender solace of a mother's love. He could not go back to Devondale, to the friends who childhood—hill and river and valle, sleeping in a fold of dreamy haze with the golden sunshine streaming over it all; the old farmhouse at noon, reposing beneath the bloom-laden boughs of the long-journey home—the little village customs or hidden beneath a snow of and the familiar faces at the station. How could he meet that blossoms; the spring budding at look of scorn on the faces of those the foot of the hill, the winding to whom he had boasted so much? rail fence, the fields sweet with He could almost hear Oscar Brown clover; all pass in an enraptured saying, "Huh, didn't make it in panorama before him. Sound the the city, eh? I knew you faint far notes of the chanticleer wouldn't. When I was up at Louisville last fall—"And then Samantha. Of course she would greet him with that "I told you so" air noontide meal and mother once and he would have to confess she more is waiting beneath the morning than he. No, he would not go back to Devondale a failure—he could not.

And really, was he not only a partial failure? Could he not be a success; a gentle south breeze was gin anew? He had only failed to stealing in at the window, a breeze receive a big position at the very beginning of his career. Perhaps of Kentucky—and with it came the old editor was right: he was thoughts of home. It was almost too ambitious. He could go back May now and the wildflowers were to that editor and take the small all bloom there. He could hear position—but no, he had spoken Samantha singing as she gathered rudely and would not apologize them; he could see her as she The last man he had visited had strolled down the lane from Devon advised him to go to the country date to her home. Or perhaps she and begin at the bottom of the lad was dreaming of him at that moment, out beneath the lilac bush with only the vigilant stars keeping watch above. If Merlin had known Samantha's thoughts at that moment he would have experienced more heartaches than he was undergoing for she was thinking not of him—but of Oscar.

The orchestra ceased playing and he heard the listeners applauding. They loved the song not for any message it bore them but because they were charmed by its plaintiveness. But to Merlin it was more. It was a heart-echo, a strain touched by memory and homesickness, that grew longer and louder, sweet and sadder, like the increasing surf-song when the billows landward roll.

He closed the window and crossed the room to his desk. Taking some maps from his trunk he placed them on the table before him and sat for some time studying them. Finally he drew a circle around the name of a little town in the far west, copied the name in his notebook and placed the map back in the trunk. In an atlas he searched for the town and found it to be a place of a few thousand inhabitants, "a growing mining town." This was the ideal place for one of his intentions. He placed the atlas aside and proceeded to count his money. He was astonished at the small amount he had. Carefully placing the bills in a roll and slipping them into an inside pocket and leaving the silver in the purse, he prepared to retire.

He felt like one who is preparing to launch on an uncharted sea. After the small amount that he had was spent he knew not what. The safe and sure thing to do would be to go back to Devondale, but then came the scornful faces, and he decided not to go. Throwing himself on a cot and leaving the door to his room unlocked he fell asleep, for he was weary.

He awoke late the next morning and was surprised when he saw it was nearly 8 o'clock. Hastily dressing he hurried down and bade Mrs. Watkins goodbye and she seemed very sorry he was leaving but a little uneasy for fear he would miss his train. He rushed to the station, dispatching a drayman after his trunk. And just as the fast express, westward bound, was whistling in the distance, he please let me go up, and see if I left it in my room," he pleaded.

"That was your misfortune, not my concern," she said, closing the door in his face.

"Wait there, Mrs. Watkins, while I get the money. You will do nothing of the kind. When you left your room you removed your trunk and all belongings. It is no longer yours. And you will please leave my house." She tried to close the door again but Merlin shoved it open and pushed her out of the way. Racing up to his room he hastily searched the apartment but found no trace of the lost purse. The telephone was ringing downstairs. He ran down the steps. Mrs. Watkins intercepted him at the door. He tried to push by her but she stood in his way. "You

THE ISSUE SUBMITTED Shall We Have Better Roads?

. . . . . This question is now put squarely up to the people of Ohio county to be decided by election March 8, 1919.

Serious consideration should be given the matter of working the roads of Ohio county. There is only one sure and certain way of getting better roads and that is by putting up the money for them. Other counties get them that way, but no other way.

The present road tax to be voted on is only TWENTY CENTS on the HUNDRED DOLLARS and will relieve three thousand or more road hands from so much work right in the busy season. It will supplement the present road fund to the extent of just about doubling it. It will put our roads in good condition all over the county and will keep them that way by the use of good tools, implements and machinery so placed and used in each community as to get good results.

The tax is small and is paid in just the same manner and at the same time other taxes are paid, and it only last five years. Under the law, and by orders of the Fiscal Court EACH MAGISTERIAL DISTRICT AND EVERY ROAD IN THE COUNTY WILL RECEIVE ITS SHARE OF THE TAXES AND ROAD FUNDS.

No one man will control this money, but the best brains of the county will be called upon to apply the funds fairly and equitably in every community. The Banks, Railroads, Coal Mines, Corporations and Town Property will pay more than half of the tax. All these concerns profit by good roads.

The tax asked for will be sufficient to widen the roads, cut many of the hills, and grade others, put the roads upon better ground, crown the roads well and keep them dry and drained, and thereby make them far more convenient, safer and better for travel. The roads are put to much greater and heavier uses now than in former years. Old methods simply fail to meet the requirements. Proper methods of road work have to be paid for.

Truly an emergency exists that ought to lead you to vote "YES" on the road tax question. We mean nothing but business and an absolutely square deal to the people of the county in the matter of keeping up a good road system for every community.

We expect, by calling upon the brains, the good sense and sound judgement of thinking men all over the county to establish a system of roads that will put the products and resources of Ohio county in position to be marketed with convenience and dispatch and at reasonable cost. This is a fair, square proposition of development and betterment.

We respectfully submit it for your favor,

OHIO COUNTY FISCAL COURT.

his boarding house.

Mrs. Watkins met him at the door. She was not wearing the same sympathetic smile now but had a hard look on her countenance.

"What, are you back so soon?" she asked with a snarl.

"I have lost my purse!" said Merlin.

"That was your misfortune, not my concern," she said, closing the door in his face.

"Wait there, Mrs. Watkins, while I get the money. You will do nothing of the kind. When you left your room you removed your trunk and all belongings. It is no longer yours. And you will please leave my house."

"She tried to close the door again but Merlin shoved it open and pushed her out of the way. Racing up to his room he miserable old thief, you stole my money!" he cried, trying to strike her. She screamed.

Just then two giant policemen entered the door, seized him by the collar, and though he struggled desperately, hurried him out to the callabooze, and went driving toward the lockup. Instead of being on his way to his future and fortune he was on his way to jail.

FORM JAMES AMBROSE.

Dear Sister:
I will answer your letter, the first one I have received from you since I left the states. I would have answered sooner but I have been on a hike for thirty days so have had no time to write. I am feeling pretty good except I have a pretty sore ankle, of course the hike accounts for that as I have never told you where I have been in France. I will try to give you a brief account of my whereabouts the past six months. I sailed from Newport News, U. S. landed at Brest, France. I stayed there six days then went from there to Rulliy and remained there until October 4th, then I was transferred to the regular army and believe me I have been on duty ever since. Have been to the Verdun front and a number of such important places. You asked how many Germans I have killed. I never killed any. They ran so fast I could not keep up with them. I crossed the Hindenburg line and dead Germans were lying on every side of the road. I was sorry I didn't get my part of them. Iva, I can't begin to tell you all I have seen and learned you will have to wait till I get back to the states. Have been over a big part of France and have seen about all I care to see. Now, I hope to get home some time in the spring. Sister told me that Corbit was wounded. Am sure sorry to hear it. Hope he is not seriously wounded. Iva, am glad you are getting along so well. Do you like teaching in Oklahoma better than in Kentucky? Sure hope you do. Guess you will take up your stenographic work when school is out again wont you? How is Owen, Quira and Zuell? Has Zuell grown much? As it is getting late and I need some rest I will not write more now. Will write you again soon.

With love,
JAMES.

RECALLS CHILDHOOD DAYS.

Hodgenville, Ky.,
February 14, 1919.

Editor of Herald,

Dear Sir:

Enclose find my check for $1.50 for which please send me The Herald for one year. For I know it is one of the best papers ever printed. I have been thinking I would take it for some time but have not done so. The editor of our paper here has been kind enough to send me several copies of the Hartford Herald for he knows how I love the dear old paper. I read every thing in it, for it carries me back to my childhood days to see so many names I know. It makes me think we are children again back in the little school house where we spent so many happy hours. I was raised near Hartford, but have been away many, many years, but if I live I am coming back this summer and look up some of my childhood friends even you I remember as a little boy. I guess most of the people have forgotten me as I have been away about thirty-seven years. Here's thanking you for the dear paper I will be looking forward to get every week.

Yours truly,
MRS. SARAH (WRIGHT) BUSH.

A STRANGE TRADITION.

Among the Seminole Indians there is a singular tradition regarding the white man's origin and superiority. They say when the Great Spirit made the earth, He also made three men, all of whom were of fair complexion, and after making them He led them to the margin of a small lake and bade them leap in and wash. One obeyed and came out purer and fairer than before; the second hesitated, during which time the water, agitated by the first, had become muddied, and when he bathed, he came up copper-colored; the third did not leap until the water became black with mud, and he came out with his own color. Then the Great Spirit laid before them three packages, and out of pity for his misfortune in color, gave the black man the first choice. He took hold of each of the packages, and having felt the weight, chose the heaviest; the copper-colored man chose the next easiest, leaving the white man the lightest. When the packages were opened the first was found to contain spades, hoes, and all implements of labor; the second enwrapped hunting, fishing and warlike apparatus; the third gave the white man pens, inks and paper, the engine of the mind—the means of mutual, mental improvement, the social link of humanity, the foundation of the white man's superiority.—Selected.

IN HONOR OF DR. VAN DYKE

Costly Organ Installed by Grateful Associates in Church of Which Noted Man Was Pastor.

A new pipe organ has been installed in the Brick Presbyterian church, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, New York, "In gratitude for the ministry of Henry Van Dyke." Doctor Van Dyke, who was until recently American ambassador to the Netherlands, was for more than twenty years pastor of this church.

The new organ, which is one of the most complete and is today perhaps the most modern church organ in the United States, is a four-manual instrument of 120 stops and 6,000 pipes, with electric action. It is really a combination of six organs—great organ, swell organ, choir organ, solo organ and echo organ. The installation includes also a set of chimes. The echo organ and chimes will be placed above the ceiling at the rear of the church, over the apse. The other parts of the combination are inclosed, each in its own swell box, and all in one general swell box, placed in the choir gallery over the front entrance to the church. Though the new organ is considerably larger than the one which it replaces, no architectural change is evident, much of the instrument being concealed behind the walls. E. M. Skinner of Boston is the builder of the new organ, which has been under construction since the summer of 1917.

It is understood that the organ cost in the neighborhood of $35,000. The fund was contributed by members of the congregation as a tribute to their old pastor, under whose leadership the worship of the Brick church was greatly enriched and beautified.

WROTE MESSAGES WITH DYE

Material for Invisible Writing Used by German Spy Was Obtained From Silk Hosiery.

A cleverly designed method of outfitting the government officials and furnishing information to the enemy was revealed in the early days of the war by the arrest of a man in Paterson, N. J., by naval intelligence officers.

The man, held as an alleged spy in a jail in Brooklyn, is said to have come from Holland and to have been employed in a silk dyeing establishment in Paterson. His unique method of sending messages to Germany called for the use of silk hosiery of a peculiar dye. It is said that he had received a dozen pairs of these socks from German agents in Holland and that his method was to soak them in water and use the coloring matter which they gave forth as a writing fluid. As this dried it became invisible until brought out by a special process, which, however, the federal agents are said to have worked out.

They, in turn, in learning the secret, opened his letters and changed the contents and forwarded the letters. The information thus received by the Germans proved of little use to them.

But for a long time, it is said, there was not enough evidence on which to convict this man, until one day through carelessness he left one of the socks where a naval intelligence officer found it. When confronted with this the man is said to have confessed to the entire project.

Y. M. C. A. in Italy.

The Y. M. C. A. in Italy, as everywhere else, has asserted itself in a most splendid and generous manner. While the red triangle, known the world over as the sign of brotherhood, is much in evidence in the Italian war zone, the four letters "Y. M. C. A." are nowhere to be seen. The reason given for this is that the Italians, in general, are opposed to any organization of a public nature which is controlled by a religious or sectarian element, a Washington bulletin says. Such a title as that of the Y. M. C. A. would create a certain feeling of mistrust among the Italian people as to the purposes of the association.

The officers of the Y. M. C. A. in Italy have been quick to appreciate this and in order to work in full harmony with the Italians have changed the name of the association to "societa (di) Fratellanza Universale" or "Society of Universal Brotherhood." Accordingly, the letters "S. F. U." have everywhere been substituted for Y. M. C. A.

Made-at-Home Labor-Saving Devices. In 11 communities of our country in Oregon the women are making home-made driers, home-made fireless cookers, and home-made telephones refrigerators under the direction of the home demonstration agent. In connection with this project one woman found that an investment of 50 cents in a dish drainer and a wire, dishtowel for pots and pans saved her ten minutes of the time required to do the dishes after each meal, or 30 minutes a day. In a year she figured this time, if accumulated, would give two weeks, of 12 hours a day, leisure. Was the investment worth while?

Uncomplimentary.

The inaccuracy of a famous writer in his book, "Joan and Peter," is making all who read it—including the victims—laugh. Nor does "H. G." spare Mr. Wills.

After calling himself a "counter-supper," he puts this description of his personal appearance into the mouth of one of his characters:

"A heavy hang of hair assisted a cascade mustache to veil a pasty face that was broad rather than long, with a sly, conceited expression . . . and rubbed together two large, clammy, white misshapen hands."

23RD, 1919.

It is further ordered that it is the sense of this court, in the event said election results in favor of the levy and collection of such tax, as aforesaid, the money thereby derived shall be so used and apportioned as that in each Magisterial District

DON'T THROW AWAY
Your Old Tires

Conserve and Help Lick the Kaiser

THIS is to show you why "DRI-KURE RETREADING" with a 3,500-mile guarantee will save you one-half to two-thirds on your tire bill.

"Dri-Kure Retreading" is a proven factory method—not the old "kettle" process that soaks the carcass of your tire with steam, that, when cold, turns to water and rots the fabric.

"Dri-Kure" method is operated by DRY HEAT under 3,000 pounds pressure. The mere fact that racing drivers use tires cured by the Dri-Kure Process is proof that we build our treads for service.

Tom Alley, Chicago racing driver, averaged 104 miles per hour for 100 miles at Chicago Speedway, June 22, 1918, without a tire change and all on Retreaded Tires. There's a reason.

Now Compare the Cost and Saving

Compare the cost of the tire you have on your car now and the cost of Dri-Kure Retreading, the same size. The chart of prices will show you the cost of retreading.

Now Figure the Saving for Yourself and remember that every tire we retread is guaranteed for 3,500 miles. Is this saving worth while? Think it over. Who wouldn't want to save from one-half to one-third of their tire bills?

We will gladly show you the complete detail and extend to you a personal invitation to come in for a chat. We will prove to you the success of this process to your own satisfaction.

The advocates of the blood and iron policy which has put Germany to the dogs, wrecked the empire of Austria, crushed the dominions of Turkey, crippled Italy, and France and shed the best blood of England, are at work in America. They are telling the people what a failure the American army was in a war that had been fought to a tie by the World's greatest militarists when the untrained "Yankee Ameteurs," whom the world so much disparaged, stepped in and saved the day. The Memphis Commercial Appeal says concerning the late war, "the great war through which we blundered to victory, losing more men in a given time than any other nation engaged." From this premises it preaches universal military service and the placing of large taxes on the people for the support of a great peace-time army and the manufacture of stores of munitions.
In the first place the Americans did not lose more men in a given time than any other nation.

Russia lost seven million in less than two years in killed and wounded; England over two million in four years; France nearly four million. These nations were in war four years and the United States nearly two. We lost two hundred thousand in killed, wounded, missing and those who died from disease in the service. Our total casualties in line of duty were not over one hundred thousand.

Our troops were in the fighting continually from last July to the end of the war and met the best fighters the Germans could put out, in the flush of victory and full of confidence. Of course a good many high-salaried officers would like to retain their jobs and a good many pie-eating politicians would like to see them do it. But the heavily-taxed American people are not going to submit to a huge army and increased taxation when it is unnecessary.

Instead of peace and tranquillity as the dreamers pictured as following the close of the war, we find the world in a worse chaos than ever, the foundations of society crumbling and the "whirlwinds of rebellion shaking the earth." Sadly enough with the collapse of monarchy and the rule of the individual, anarchy and the right of the individual has come into power. The story of government has been largely written in extremes. The balance of power has never been properly felt. Either the pendulum of destiny swings to one extreme or the other and the authoritarian rule of the despotic monarch or the unchained fury of the rabble have been predominant.
There is much argument in favor of the monarchical in lands where the populace is not sufficiently advanced to care for their own interests. A strong hand and a visible head make in favor of peace and quiet. But on the other hand the will to exploit is too strong for most rulers to resist and the result is the degradation and oppression of the masses. Political science, at once the most engaging and entertaining of subjects, has become the greatest subject in the curriculum of world diplomats.

One of the brainiest men in the United States is William Howard Taft. Every party and person admits it. As chief executive and as private citizen he acquitted himself in a manner that has distinguished him among Americans as one who speaks with knowledge and authority. And while the fourth-class partizans at Washington proceed with their heckling, Mr. Taft goes on calmly supporting the plan of the League of Nations. He says he would not risk these trouble-makers over night. He has an eye that can pierce the thin veil of partisanship and look into futurity where the greatest problems ever faced by a nation await our decision. He knows it will require calm wisdom not fire-eating sectionalism or obsolete conservatism—to meet this condition and solve these problems Mr. Taft realizes that such a man is at the helm in the person of Woodrow Wilson and he is public-spirited and patriotic enough to confess it.

The assassin's bullet always finds the brightest marks. In the wounding of Premier Clemenceau, of France, there is another demonstration of the point to which fanaticism will carry one if indulged in to a great extent. The one who aimed a bullet at the heart of the sturdy old "Tiger" of France did so at the point of conscience in the belief that he was upholding some "ideal" which he thought the premier opposed. Bolshevism in Russia and anarchy the world over are but practical examples of "idealistic socialism" gone to seed.

The month of February contains the birthdays of two of the world's noblest characters and America's greatest sons, the founder of the Republic and its protector. The shades of Washington and Lincoln stalk through the world today as the war-clouds are lifting and the starry banner still floats triumphant.
The world waits before the shrine of the father of the Republic and no less a tribute does it pay to that sturdy son of Kentucky who stood like a bulwark against the seething tides of rebellion and kept the union of states indissoluble and firm forever.

Rev. Taylor's church members were fined for attending church against the Board of Health's orders fines ranging from five to fifty dollars each. Rather an enforced tithing for the Lord.

Some one asked us what the climatic condition of the country would be and we told them dry—after July the first.

Can anything be dead and still be killed? The other day the foreman said, "Kill that ad as it is dead."

Now that the Kaiser has trod the primrose path, watch Yankee Doo-die start for Mexico.

And it will soon be apple blaz-some time in Old Kentucky.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of Hawker Miller, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Miller, of this place, died of pneumonia and flu January 28, 1919. Hawker was 19 years of age at the time of his death. He professed faith in Christ and united with Central Grove Baptist church. He was a splendid Sunday School pupil and a consecrated useful member of his church. To know him was to love him. How sad it made us when we heard of his death, but remembering that God is Love and that all things work together for Good to those that love God, we are borned to say the will of he Lord be done.
God Gave and God Hath Taken away. Blessed be the Name of the Lord. We would say to the bereaved parents and family the words that the angels said to Mary,
"Why weepest Thou?" Hawker has only gone on before to live with Jesus and to welcome you all Home around the Throne of God where there is no more pain nor sorrowing nor crying, for God shall wipe all tears from their eyes.
We loved him yes we loved him,
But angels loved him more,
And they have gently called him to Heaven's shining shore
The Golden gates were opened,
A gentle voice said come
And with farewells unspoken
He calmly entered Home.

A FRIEND,

Lizzie McHenry, a negro woman formerly of Hattie but now of somewhere in West Virginia, was on her way to see her mother and on arriving in Hartford Saturday night February 15th, was rudely held up by Sheriff Bratcher and her suitcase searched which showed four sparkling quarts of the best brand of Yellow Banks Liquor. Lizzie quoted scripture and swore by Moses and all the prophets that she was not a bootlegger but had the four quarts for her own personal use. The sheriff was undecided about how one poor negress could drink a gallon of booze in the few days she was to remain in the city and so, against her pleadings, he confiscated the whiskey and she was placed under a $100 bond to appear at the March term of court.
She said she didn't care for herself and they might make any disposition of her they wished if they would only give her the whiskey!
A negro man, Martin Walker, came to the sheriff's office after she was arrested and tried to compel the sheriff to release the negress, even threatening to use violence. Mr.
Bratcher ordered him out of the office. No warrant was sworn out for him.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY

An American Mother Beats Them All

There are few families in which the record of Mrs. Gustave Koch, Box 24, Keweenaw County, Michigan, has been surpassed. Not in the fact that she raised a family of eight is her story remarkable. Thousands of families are larger. The history of the Koch family is unique in that the mother, with all her loving care, pinned her faith to a simple home remedy and never had a doctor for her children.

re is what she says: "Peruna has my children good. I have a lot of right and never had a docto only wear medicine. We all Peruna a splendid tonic."

So far as we have learned, Peruna is the only known remedy for which such a wonderful claim can be made. Like Mrs. Koch, there are thousands upon thousands of mothers who place their entire dependence upon Peruna.

That Peruna has merited this confidence is attested by the words from such mothers as Mrs. Gustave Koch. Long life to her! Peruna is indicated for coughs, colds, catarrh of the head, nose and throat, or disorder of the stomach, bowels or other organs due to catarrhal inflammation of the mucous linings.

If you are sick and suffering, write the Peruna Company, Dept.

you may find that Peruna is what

FROM GUY RHODES.

Germany,

December 1918.

Dearest Mother and Sisters:

I will try and write you a few lines today to let you know I am well and getting along fine and dandy.

We have reached our destination—arrived at Coblenz three days ago, but now we are thirty miles across the Rhine river in Germany. The town that we are in now is too small to be on the map. This was one of the best trips we have had since we have been over here and some of the most beautiful country I have ever seen is along the Rhine.

Well, here is a little history of my travels in France and Germany. We left the U. S. August 7, 1917 and arrived at St. Nazaire, France August 21st. On our way over we had a three hour battle with the u-boats, but none of our convoy was lost. Our first move from St. Nazaire was Camp Le Valdahon on the Swiss border stayed there six weeks and left for Montiers, a small town in France. There we were equipped with everything all new trucks, clothes etc. From there we had our first experience on the front what was known as the Luneville Sector. From there we were on the Toul and Nancy Sectors. Oh! I forgot something our first experience on the front was Nov. 15, 1917, and the First Division has been continually on the front since that date until the day the fighting ceased. Well, I will start my story again. From the Toul sector we went to the Somme around Cantigny there we had our first experience of real warfare. Our boys took Cantigny in thirty-five minutes and was one of the most terrible artillery fire I have ever heard in all my experience in this war. The Germans counter attacked us seven times in twenty-four hours trying to get back the town, but the last one was their fatal one. They started over in their tanks, about fifty in number all but about seven of them were knocked out, and the rest turned about face for Germany, so that was their most fatal one. Their losses were great compared to ours theirs being between seven and eight thousand and ours only a few hundred. So you can plainly see we have it on them for fighting. On the front we were on for over three months and in July this year we left Cantigny and went to Poissards front. There we had a hard battle but defeated the Germans again. From Poissards we came back again to the Toul sector and stayed only a few weeks, from there to St. Miquel where we drove the Germans back about thirty miles. That was the easiest of them all. From here to the Somme Forests one of the worst of all our division's casualties were at for we were in the thickest of battle we lasted about seven days then our division came out a few days rest, and went back the same place and drove the Germans as far as Sedan. This was our last and their last drive. These last two, their casualties were great that we could not bury the dead for days after the drive. Nov. 9th we heard the news the armistice was on, but didn't believe the good news. Our men went almost crazy, some of us said we haven't whipped like we should and wanted to the good work up and drive back to Berlin. But on the 11th we got the final news that the truce had been signed, so we were a city I said but it is no longer a beautiful city, but a mass of ruins. Nothing remains of the mansions but a pile of bricks, stayed at Verdun one week and for Germany our first stop was the little State of Luxemburg which has been neutral all through the war we visited the city of Luxembourg, the capital of the state, from there we went into real Germany and enjoyed the beautiful scenery of the Rhine and Mosel rivers, one of the most beautiful scenes I have ever seen in all my traveling. Our first city on the Rhine was Boppard, almost as large as Coblenz. From there we came to Coblenz, one of the most beautiful cities I have ever seen. We were the first Americans there and had the nicest of hotels to sleep in and the people treated us real nicely with the exception of a few who made faces at us. But they know what we want we get if they don't give it to us we take it. So there is another way for them to do but eat us good. We stayed at Coblenz three or four days and crossed the Rhine, here we are now on the 11th just waiting for the peace to sign and hoping to return home soon, that is all you can hear from all the boys. Well, I am very proud of my trip to France and Germany, and also proud of my division the best in the world. Proud to be in the first division in France

How Many Days Per Year Should a Tractor Work To Be a Profitable Investment?

The number of working days for an advanced tractor like the Case 10-18 is rapidly increasing. In early days a tractor's chief duty was considered plowing. Men bought principally for that purpose twenty-six years ago, when we first began to build motor tractors.

In later years, with the introduction of our smaller sizes, men were satisfied with a maximum of 30 days' use per year.

But war-time conditions have brought about changes not only in the mechanical development of tractors, but in their adaptation to multiplied uses.

More Ways to Use Your Tractor

Nowadays many farmers attain as high as 200 days' use per year, although the average, of course, is considerably less.

Our latest and best small tractor, the 10-18, is purposely designed for maximum use. It is adaptable for all kinds of work. It represents years of study in the field, dozens of extensive investigations.

We have found that 9 out of 10 farmers consider plowing ability of first rank, then come discing, pulverizing and harrowing, belt work, shelling, shredding and feed grinding, harvesting, road work, threshing, hauling, sawing wood, cutting ensilage and silo filling, baling straw, planting and seeding, and stump pulling.

The above uses are stated in their relative importance, as tabulated in a recent investigation.* The same investigation discloses that a tractor spends 63 4/7 per cent of its time in the field, and 35 3/7 per cent on the belt.

Ever Ready

The Case 10-18 is small and compact. It weighs little more than a team of horses. Its length is 102 inches, width 56 inches and height 54 1/2 inches. It turns in a 22-foot circle, and can get around easily. It goes through a small gate or door and easily shares the road with other vehicles.

While rated at 10 horsepower on the drawbar, it develops nearly 14. While rated at 18 on the belt, it develops up to 24. Thus one has the assurance that it

Greater Economy

Another feature is its economical consumption of kerosene. It has a Case Sylphon Thermostat which controls the cooling system and insures complete combustion of kerosene. And it prevents raw fuel from passing by the pistons and diluting oil in the crank case.

An improved air-washer delivers clean air to the carburetor. No grit nor dust gets into the cylinders to minimize their efficiency and shorten their life.

Our illustrated booklet describes all the advanced ideas in the new Case 10-18. Get a copy by all means, so that you may judge tractors well by acquainting yourself with the latest and best practices.

We will gladly send a copy free. Or it may be obtained from a Case Dealer.
